Facts and Figures

The ski resorts of Tärnaby and Hemavan bring skiers, snowboarders and snowmobile enthusiasts from near and far, eager to experience the winter thrills and excitement they offer: alpine and cross-country skiing, heliskiing, snowmobile tours and ice fishing.

But the lure of the mountains is year round. The long glorious days of summer see outdoor adventurers drawn to this magnificent unspoilt landscape to get their fill of trekking, fishing, cycling and pot-holing, alongside those who move at a more leisurely pace and just wish to bask in all that Mother Nature has to offer.

Situated within the county district of Västerbotten and province of Lapland, Hemavan and Tärnaby are where you can find one of the world's most successful ski sports clubs, Tärna IK Fjällvinden. Unsurprisingly then, they're also renowned for producing a host of successful alpine skiers: Anja Pärson, Jens Byggmark, Stig Strand and Ingemar Stenmark.

For nature lovers, Hemavan Tärnaby couldn't be better placed as it is located right on the doorstep of the Vindelfjällen Nature Reserve, Europe's largest pristine wilderness. Covering a vast 550 000 hectares, this spectacular region is home to a wide variety of fauna and flora and the place where two Sami communities graze their reindeer herds during the summer. Trekkers take note – Hemavan is the starting point for the king of all routes, Kungsleden (The Royal Trail). This leads to Abisko, 450 km and many, many, many steps north.

Despite their large-scale natural surroundings, the villages and facilities of Hemavan and Tärnaby remain small and intimate. There are no huge ski-lifts or mega-hotels to be found, yet you will find that personal service and quality are prized far more here than at many other mountain resorts. It is probably why visitors keep returning year after year.

At 1,000 km north of Stockholm, you might think the area is remote – far from it. Flights six days a week from Hemavan Tärnaby Airport maintain close links with the capital as does the long distance coach service which has several departures a week. There's also a night train that connects Stockholm to Vännäs from where travellers can board a bus to continue their journey up country. The university town of Umeå has a daily bus service too, particularly popular with those who have arrived on the daily ferry from Vasa, in Finland, run by Wasaline.

Hemavan Tärnaby is also close to the border with Norway, and, at 100km away, the Norwegian town of Mo I Rana is actually the closest main urban centre.

Sami culture plays a major role. Tärnaby has its own Sami school while the two Sami communities of Vaps-ten and Ubmeje graze their reindeer throughout the region.
